DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This two part farmhouse consists of a two story three bay stuccoed stone section with a two story, three bay balloon frame addition with a recessed double porch included beneath the main roof span. The stuccoed surface of the stone part of the house has been struck with vertical and horizontal lines to give the appearance of uniform cut block construction. Windows have six over six pane sashes. Also present is a frame bank barn which according to the owner was built about 1902.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This farmstead represents two periods of building. The older stone section of the house with its stuccoed walls incised to look like block displays the frequent 19th century preference for covering natural surfaces to refine the appearance of a structure.
